

for the Greenwood Voices
SANSKRIT VERSES

Anon - Medieval Sanskrit
translation - John Brough

1. In the Courtyard of the Sky

JOHN FRITH
(b. 1947)

Moderato (♩ = 80)

p

Soprano
When the East gave birth to the Moon, Love was the dan-cer at the

Alto
When the East gave birth to the Moon, Love was

Tenor
When the East gave birth to the Moon, Love was the

Bass
When the East gave birth Love was the

Piano (reh. only)

Moderato (♩ = 80)

6

S. feast; The hea - vens smiled for joy; and the dim.

A. the dan-cer at the feast; The hea - vens smiled for joy; and the dim.

T. dan - cer the dan-cer at the feast; The hea - vens smiled for joy; And the dim.

B. dan - cer and the hea - vens smiled for joy; And the dim.

Pno.

f

9 mp cresc.

S. Wind strewed the per - fumed dust, the per - fumed dust of

A. Wind strewed the per - fumed dust, the per - fumed dust of

T. Wind strewed dust, the per - fumed dust the per - fumed

B. Wind strewed dust, the per - fumed dust the per - fumed

Pno.

12 f p

S. lo - tus pol - len of lo - tus pol - len in the court-yard of the

A. lo - tus of lo - tus pol - len of pol - len in the court-yard of the

T. dust dust of lo - tus of lo - tus in the

B. dust dust of lo - tus in the Pno.